DLL TEACHER TRAINING BLENDED LEARNING COURSE

Deutsch Lehren Lernen (DLL 3)

The Goethe-Institut offers this unique teacher training course 3 “Deutsch als fremde Sprache”, which incorporates the principle of professional development through collaborative action research.

This course offers teachers of German opportunities to:

- enhance their current language and communication skills and competencies
- broaden their understanding of MFL pedagogy
- cover the content in module 3 and learn:
 - how to teach German as a Foreign Language, the grammatical structures, their functions and their effective use
 - how to teach German as a Foreign Language systematically appropriately at primary level and/or in accordance with the new GCSE and A-levels
 - how to evaluate the quality of learning activities and exercises they plan for their lessons
 - how to devise exercises and tasks to support interactive learning
 - how to select, plan and implement appropriate individual, pair and group work tasks facilitating interaction between young learners to help them make progress
- experience how a teacher-led investigative model supports CPD
- discover how learning by experiencing, and observing with professional support and interaction, enhances:
 - the exchange of best practice examples, ideas and insights
 - the development of more task-based and interactive teaching
 - training of strategies for independent, professional developmentParticipants will be supported by experienced trainers. They will benefit from the potential of blended learning with face-to face and online support.
